

Adie's & Jad Story

Adie's son, Jad was born normal but at three months of age he received the DPT inoculation. He had a very severe response, beginning with a comatose sleep. When he emerged 36 hours later he was a very different child. His development slowed down dramatically and then the seizures started, with up to 10 a night. Adie, who is herself a healer, says the experience was 'very frightening'. Then his digestive system began to give trouble, with extreme colic and chronic constipation.

Twelve years down the line, he has never walked or talked. Jad is almost like a baby, needing baby food and burping after eating. Sleeping through the night has been virtually non-existent.. The pressure on Adie and her husband has been enormous.

'We tried virtually everything from homoeopathy, through energetic healing, herbalism, naturopathy, Chinese medicine, acupuncture, almost everything. Eventually, we reached a point where we consciously gave permission to Jad to leave his body if he wanted. At that stage he was in so much pain, wracked with seizures and no sleep whatsoever. Then I bumped into an old friend Jannet, and she said she had the Q2 machine. We decided to try it. We noticed within 15 or 20 minutes his body began to stabilize. But then he became even worse. I had a gut feel that it was an initial healing crisis so we persevered.

'One indication that toxicity was moving out was that he broke out in welts. After two weeks we noticed a dramatic change. He was still having fits but not nearly as many and his recovery time was much quicker after each fit. Also, his digestion improved and for the first time in 12 years he started sleeping through the night. He became more focused and he took notice of the world. It was amazing, but we didn't want to be too excited because we had had many disappointments before. After six weeks I couldn't deny what was going on, so I bought a machine for Jad and the family. Since then, he's gone into another healing crisis, with more welts, and he is having some seizures, though they are different, being much faster and shorter. His digestion has also become more sensitive again, though it may well be another aspect of toxic cleansing. He has been receiving treatment on the Q2 for nearly three months so far.

'The results are good overall and I've introduced the machine into my own practice. There I've seen people also go through major positive changes on the physical level.. Some then regress but then there's emotional cleansing of anger or pain and then there's an improvement in health again. So this machine appears to work on not merely the physical but other subtler levels as well.
